Background

The digitisation of Tasmania's heritage and archival collections is a key goal outlined in the Department of Education's, Community Knowledge Network (CKN) strategy. A key deliverable in the combining of the Archives Office of Tasmania and Heritage Services is to '...provide digital services for the Tasmanian community to meet its expectations of online information anywhere, as and when they seek information. It will expand the digitising program so researchers worldwide will be able to obtain digital copies of its unique collections immediately – in this way it will contribute to the national and international body of knowledge'. From this, Community Knowledge Network (CKN) has identified the Digitisation Program as a key strategy within its business plan for 2008-2011.

The Digitisation Selection Committee is responsible for developing CKN's annual Digitisation Plan and is comprised of representatives from various sections within the CKN organisation. All digitisation proposals have been considered by this committee. Operational management of the CKN's Digitisation Program is the responsibility of the Digital Services section within Tasmanian Archive and Heritage Office (TAHO).

Projects

The following projects have been selected by the Digitisation Selection Committee as priorities for digitisation for the 2008-2009 financial year.

All items have been selected in accordance with the CKN Digitisation Policy and were deemed a high priority for digitisation.

In all instances copyright or open access provisions have been confirmed. Where possible most items selected are already either catalogued in TALIS or indexed in Archives One or another online index.
